Instructions

Words in plain text are questions to respondent. Words in bold are instructions to interviewer. Skip patterns ensure that respondents are asked as few questions as possible.

[redacted]

I'll be asking you a number of questions about yourself, your current situation and your life experiences. Some of the questions can be answered quickly, and for others you will need to stop and think a moment. Please take your time to consider these questions carefully. It isn't always easy to remember past events, and we'd appreciate it if you try your very best to recall your experiences accurately. If a question is not clear, be sure to ask about it. I want you to be sure of the question before you answer it. Also, if you don't know the answer to a question, just say that you "don't know." You do not have to answer any question you're uncomfortable answering.

Section O: Personality During Initial Substance Use

O1. Now I want to ask about how you were doing personally at the time you started to use tobacco, alcohol or other non-prescription drugs. In other words, how you were feeling and your attitude before you started to use any type of drug. I understand that this can be a troubling time in a person's life, so don't be afraid to tell me how you felt. As I said before, all of this information will be kept strictly confidential and will not be shared with anyone outside of the research team. When I name a feeling or read a description of how a person might feel or act, I want you to tell me how much this describes you just before you started using tobacco, alcohol, or other non-prescription drugs. Of course people feel or act different from day-to-day, but I want you to let me know whether these feelings describe you in general at this time in your life. For example, if I say "sad", I want you to tell me if that describes you as exactly, quite a lot, somewhat, only a little bit, or not at all.
